

Ramana, M. V., 2003c, "Climate change failure: Underlying causes'," The Daily Times, November 21.

Climate change could cause far-reaching, irreversible and potentially catastrophic consequences for the world's peoples. Dealing with it requires going beyond 'business as usual' scenarios or minor modifications thereof that have been advocated by advanced capitalist countries.